Can’t forgive or forget We hold on and it’s dangerous, it’s dangerous
We resent, we regret We look back but it’s dangerous

Living like we do is so dangerous

I wanna hit you up ain’t got the words to say Cause all that junk would do is push you farther away

And every time I see you acting like it’s all ok You were the last one I ever thought would fall away

I never thought you’d change, never thought you’d stray
And run right back to the very things I know you hate

With all you gone through now tell me why you go this way Caught up in the junk, going where you came

Caught up on the run, your every day the same
You hold your head up high, living it without no shame

And every day it gets a little harder just to pray
If I could sit you down, here's what I'd say

Verse 2 (Rap)

Living like we do is so dangerous
Your wings are broken yet you keep on flying

Every time I talk to you, you never recognize it Holding on to your past yet you keep denying

Try to mask your hurt in all the junk that you're trying Yet I'll be lying if I said it's all ok

You're missing church man, it's getting worse today
It's obvious that you're hurt, that's the role you play

The one where you blame and push everybody away
I have to say that He's the one you need

The one that died, crucified now on that tree
And the final thing I've got to say now honestly

The one I'm talking about is me
Living like we do
It's a long hard road to nowhere And we're hav-ing trou-ble find-ing our way It's a long hard road to nowhere Need some-thing dif-fer-ent, some-one help me to change

Living like we do is so (dangerous)

Living like we do is so dang - er - ous
